

ROAD-HOUSE FIGHT PUT UP TO BOARD

District Attorney Law to Bring Resolution
Before County
Board

R. W. DAVIES IS RE-ELECTED

Bangor Man Made Chairman Again by 23
Out of 33
Votes

That the road house situation in La Crosse county will receive the attention of the county board which went into session at the court house today, is indicated by a resolution which will be introduced this afternoon in the behalf of District Attorney D. S. Law, asking for an appropriation to be used in the prosecution of the keepers of the road resorts. The resolution will ask for either a separate appropriation of two or three hundred dollars which will be used to hire detectives for the procuring of evidence against the resort keepers, or for permission to use the appropriation already set aside for the district attorney for this purpose.

At Governor's Request.
The resolution will be introduced as the result of the request forwarded by Governor Francis E. McGovern to District Attorney Law and Sheriff John Weber directing the officials to exert the power invested in them by virtue of office to clean up the road houses in this county. District Attorney Law takes the attitude that raiding road houses affords but temporary relief at the best and that to effect a permanent remedy conviction and imprisonment is necessary. To send a road house keeper to the penitentiary it is necessary that more evidence than can be obtained in a raid be secured.

The governor's order followed a conference recently held by Mayor Ori Sorensen with him in Madison at which the road house situation was discussed.

Should the board of supervisors refuse to allow the appropriation it is probable that more money will be spent in raids thus effecting no economy.

Davis Re-elected.
R. W. Davis, of Bangor, was re-elected chairman of the board today by a vote of 23 out of 33. Walter Winter received five votes; Valentine Keppel one and William Barber three. Five supervisors were not present at the opening meeting. An effort to make the vote for Chairman Davis unanimous brought objection from Supervisor Lemuel Cox of Onalaska who insisted on a ballot.

On recommendation of the committee on grounds and buildings the board refused to hire a regular assistant for the clerk of circuit court at a regular salary.

Supervisor Cox served notice that he intended to introduce a resolution asking for an investigation into the condition of the Midway-Holmen state highway which he claims is in poor condition.

That it will cost $2,100 to make adequate improvements on "Nigger Nathan Hill" on the West Salem road so as to cut the nine percent grade to six percent was the substance of a report submitted by County Highway Commissioner John Hintgen at the request of the road and bridge committee. The appropriation for the projected improvement has already been provided. Mr. Hintgen reported that it is not feasible.

WEATHER

Temperature for La Crosse during past 24 hours:
High, 58.
Low, 42.
Precipitation, .54.
Forecast for La Crosse and vicinity: Unsettled with showers tonight or Thursday; no decided change in temperature.

Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa: Unsettled weather with showers tonight or Thursday; brisk to high winds.

Weather Conditions.
The lake storm has moved to the north Atlantic coast and an area of high pressure with low temperature covers the lake region and upper Mississippi valley. The southwestern storm is central over Kansas. Light to moderately heavy showers have occurred during the past 24 hours from the north Pacific states to the middle and north Atlantic coast and the weather is generally cloudy throughout this section this morning with rain in the Dakotas, the lower lake region and middle Atlantic states.

The storm over Kansas will cause unsettled weather throughout this section tonight and Thursday with showers. The temperature will not change materially.

JIM HILL SAYS WALL STREET IS ALONE IN ITS FIGHT ON TARIFF

NEW YORK, May 14.—J. J. Hill, "empire builder," of the northwest and railroad magnate, paid his respects to Wall street and discussed the tariff and general business conditions in an interview published here today.

"Wall street hasn't a friend west of Buffalo," said Hill. "It is merely a counter over which the people of the country are supposed to be trading. It cannot live very well on itself."

"The people demand tariff reduction and they are determined to have it. If the senate blocks them, the people will change the complexion of the senate by means of direct elections."

"The old political parties no longer exist in the northwest. This talk about Japanese trouble is merely the frothings of politicians and officeholders. If Californians object to the Japanese, why sell them land?"

"Our trade with Canada is nearly twice as much as with all the countries from the Rio Grande to Cape Horn. Montana is raising the banner yields of wheat per acre. With irrigation the state can supply the nation with the best sugar beets in the world."

"I see no signs of slackening business, or necessary curtailment."

NATIONAL OFFICER IS IN CITY

Vice-President Rumpel Says
National Body Will Stand Behind Men
in Local Struggle

That the international body will stand behind the La Crosse sheet metal workers in their strike is the assertion made this morning by Henry Rumpel, seventh vice president of the national union, today.

Mr. Rumpel, who is also business manager of the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' local No. 24, of Milwaukee, has been in the city since Saturday attempting to secure a settlement. He enumerates the demands of the men as follows:

Increase in wages to 33 1-3 cents per hour.
That contractors doing personal work pay $5.00 per year for a card of the Building and Trades council in order that they may carry it when at work in compliance with union rules.

That the work-day be reduced from 10 to 9 hours.

According to John Rae, organizer of the Trades and Labor council, there are eighteen men now on strike. Demand for contracts have been made upon all shops and hardware stores in the city that employ or whose business is calculated to cause them to employ sheet metal workers. This includes the two corrugating and roofing companies, but there is no strike at the plant of the Badger plant, because the men there are not affiliated with the union. Fifteen employers are interested of whom the new contract has now been signed by four, as follows:

C. M. Zschoche, 1526 Jackson street.

Jos. J. Lienfelder, 305 South Third street.

Anthony Gass, 415 South Third street.

John Hermann, 818 Berlin street.

"The wages now demanded by the sheet metal workers is 62-3 cents an hour less than that paid the next lowest trade in the building and trades of the city," said Mr. Rumpel. "Wages in these trades run as high as 65 cents the hour for an 8-hour day. The employers decline to treat with us as a body, although they have an organization. Our conduct has been of a nature to promote a friendly settlement, but the men are chafing under the employers' policy of ignoring them."

That a change in the demands to call for an 8-hour day may be made by the strikers was the assertion today of one of the strikers.

THEFT OF PLANS WORRIES OFFICIAL

EVERY EFFORT TO CATCH THIEF

Detectives at Work on the Case from All Angles;
Fire Control Secret
Revealed

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Despite the best efforts of a force of picked secret service officers, not a single trace had been found today of the thief who stole the plans of the new battleship Pennsylvania from the navy department. The government officials are far more troubled than they care to admit over this fact. Because of the nature of the thefts it is feared that they are the work of an insider. The result is an uncomfortable feeling of suspicion among the persons within the department who might have access to the plans.

Traitor Worries Officials.
Secretary of the Navy Daniels has ordered that the thief is to be located without fail. No trouble nor expense is to be spared. The fact that may be at the mercy of a traitor has worried the officials as they have not been in many years. Detectives are at work inside and outside the great building and there was a widespread belief today that the thief or thieves must eventually be discovered.

Officials of the department insisted today that the suggestion that there was any direct connection between the thefts and the Japanese situation growing out of the California anti-alien land owning legislation was unjust.

The theory most popular with the detectives who are working on the case is that the plans were stolen by some one who believed he might be able to sell them later. Reasoning along these lines, the operatives who are working to solve the mystery, claim that the thief probably still has the plans and they will be able to recover them.

Despite the fact that the navy department claims that the plans stolen would be of no benefit to anyone, persons familiar with the case say that this is an exaggeration. They point to the fact that it is admitted the electric wiring was indicated and say that this probably means that the secret of the fire control system is in the possession of whoever has the plans.

WINNETKA, Ill., May 14.—A. S. Goodrich, millionaire wholesale tobacco man, was crushed by his own auto when he attempted to crank it last night. Goodrich, the head of A. S. Goodrich & Co., the largest wholesale tobacco house in Milwaukee, started for Chicago. He climbed out of his machine near Winnetka to crank up, forgetting the clutch. The big car leaped forward and battered him against a telephone pole. He died in the Evanston hospital last night.

COLORED MINISTER IS FOUND GUILTY

Jury Convicts Rev. Henry Alexander for Obtaining Money
Falsely

MAKES PLEA IN OWN BEHALF

Negro Collector Insists that He Was Only the Agent for Rev.
Claughton

Rev. Henry B. Alexander of Milwaukee, accused of obtaining money under false pretenses, was found guilty by the jury in circuit court late yesterday afternoon and will be sentenced by Judge E. C. Higbee probably Saturday. The maximum penalty for the crime under the Wisconsin statutes is one year in the penitentiary.

An unexpected turn developed in the case yesterday at the close of the testimony of the witnesses when Rev. Alexander, who claims to have practiced law for four years in Gary, Ind., addressed the jury in a plea for justice. The colored pastor spoke in true pulp style and argued with vehement eloquence that the testimony had shown no intent of crime. He asserted that he had acted only in the capacity of agent for Rev. George Claughton, pastor of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion church of Oshkosh.

Demands Justice.
"It is not right," he said, "that the agent should be punished and the man he works for goes scot-free. I told the police at the time of my arrest that I was not using the credentials from the colored divinity and industrial college of Milwaukee, but that I was collecting for Rev. Claughton's church at Oshkosh. Rev. Claughton testified himself that the money was turned over to him and that I received only the collector's commission for my work. No intent of crime has been shown and I ask you not for mercy but plain common justice."

Rev. Alexander was then followed by his attorney, Frank Winter, who addressed the jury for an hour, the limit of time allowed by the court. Attorney Winter opened his argument with the statement that negroes and Indians should be shown more consideration by members of the bar and courts because of the instinctive racial feeling against which they are forced to labor.

"This man fought his way through the world," he said, "to a point of vantage seldom gained by a colored man. He studied law and attained success in this profession. He was also a successful minister of the gospel and it is not reasonable to believe that he would, in mature years, stoop to crime as a means of making a livelihood."

Compares to Bishop Thomas.
Attorney Winter compared Alexander's attempts to raise money to revive the Milwaukee school after it had been closed to the work of Bishop Thomas in re-establishing Gale college at Galesville after it had failed for financial reasons. "Alexander was arrested because he was black," he said, "and none would think of accusing Bishop Thomas because he has a respectable position in the community."

"If Alexander is found guilty of this charge he will be thrown upon the world to beg a living or work upon the streets. He will be unable to practice in either of his professions."

Mr. Winter closed with a bitter arraignment of Rev. Claughton, who, he said, had turned on his friend in the time of trouble and danger. "Like a rat in a corner," when the court got after him," he said, "Claughton was compelled to admit that he got half of the money collected. They were arrested and like the coward he is he turned on his friend to save his own skin. He can talk until his face is blacker than he is now and I shall not believe that he is any less guilty than the man who was trying to help him raise money."

Claughton "Student Grafter"
Rev. Claughton fared no better at the hands of District Attorney D. S. Law in his closing argument. Attorney Law bitterly denounced him as a "student grafter working under the tutelage of a more experienced crook, Alexander."

With voice weighted with sarcasm Attorney Law scored Alexander as an "educated negro" who preferred to graft for a living rather than do honest work.

"Think of him raising money for a fake institution and putting it into his own pocket," he said, "thereby depriving worthy institutions of their just dues. He is able to make a living in more ways than any man on this jury. A lawyer, preacher, editor, professor in a divinity college, the clever only knows what not and yet traveling to every city in the state and getting easy money by false representation."

Tried to Dodge.
"In his argument before you he made a skillful attempt to overlook the credentials by means of which he raised money. Yet he admitted telling the police it was no good. Mr. Kurtenacker testified that this credential had been presented to him and that he made out the check for the school it was supposed to represent."

SAYS BROKEN FINGERS OF WIFE WERE A RUSE TO KIDNAP THEIR SON

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., May 14.—Whether Clarence Pierce Brokaw, former New York banker, will send detectives on the trail of his wife who kidnaped their son "Buster" while Brokaw was in jail and fled the state, will probably be decided this afternoon at a conference between Brokaw and his mother.

Brokaw, who has been in jail on charge of breaking two of his wife's fingers by hitting her with a frying pan, has been released on $500 bond furnished by his mother. It is probable he will never be prosecuted, as his wife, the complaining witness, is out of the state.

When asked why he hit his wife, Brokaw today indignantly denied that he had ever done so. He alleges that the whole thing was a ruse on her part, that she tied up her fingers to put him in jail so she could kidnap their child.

"The charges on which Mrs. Brokaw caused my arrest are a pack of lies from beginning to end," exclaimed the infuriated husband today. "She had it all framed up to put me in jail and keep me there while she made her preparations for flight. I do not deny that we had some trouble. When a woman raises her arm to throw a stove lighter, I think a man has a right to try to protect himself. That's what she started. The trouble occurred Wednesday and why did she wait until Saturday night before having me arrested, if it was not to make her 'get away'? Her fingers were neither broken nor injured."

MADISON, Wis., May 14.—Wisconsin republicans gathered here today to attend a "harmony" banquet which will be given this evening under the auspices of the republican state central committee. Reservations for 500 plates have already been made by the committee. Neither Senator La Follette or Governor McGovern will be present. The senator has wired that official duties incident to the receipt of the tariff bill in the senate make it impossible for him to come and Governor McGovern has declined.

Three republican leaders of Minnesota are expected to arrive here at noon. George S. Loftus, chairman of the Minnesota progressive republican executive committee, H. N. Tucker of Courtney, a progressive republican leader, and Congressman James A. Manahan are in the party. The arrangements committee announced the following speakers: "Republicans in Wisconsin," Congressman James A. Frear, Hudson. "Mission of the Party," Congressman James A. Manahan, Minneapolis.

"Republicans in the Nation," Congressman L. L. Lenroot, Superior. S. H. Cady of Green Bay will act as toastmaster. An order has been received from Emanuel Philipp, a Taft leader in the state last fall, for five tickets to the banquet. He is expected to arrive here this afternoon.

POLICE ARREST ELOPING COUPLE

Green Bay Man's Theft of a Manufacturer's Wife Brings Him to Grief
in La Crosse

That the course of true love never runs smooth on the Green Bay was demonstrated today when Mrs. Mary Prohowski and Joe Hudson, both of Green Bay, an eloping couple, were arrested in a North side boarding house.

Prohowski is a manufacturer of spirit levels and carpenter's tools, and Hudson an obscure but dashing cavalier. When the couple left they checked their baggage to La Crosse over the Green Bay, but at Grand Rapids they transferred to the St. Paul to throw pursuers off the track. The outraged husband, hot on their trail, got their number and hastened to inform the police who, provided with the number of their baggage checks on the Green Bay, were watching that depot.

Shortly after midnight the police located the couple in a North side hotel, where they had registered as George Morley and wife, Hudson having secured a job there as cook. They were arrested on a statutory charge, and will be given a hearing this afternoon.

DUE PROCESS OF LAW REQUIRED

Lawyer Declares Satisfac-

Shown

MADISON, Wis., May 14.—(Special.)—Attorneys for Herman L. Ekern presented to the supreme court today answers to four questions on the Ekern-McGovern case propounded by the court for additional light on the issues at bar. John A. Aylward and M. B. Olbrich represented Ekern and H. L. Butler and A. C. Umbreit were counsel for Governor McGovern.

The case comes up on an appeal by Ekern from an order of the circuit court denying a temporary injunction restraining the governor and his aides from interfering with Ekern's possession of office of insurance commissioner, and the arguments were made upon a rehearing ordered by the court a month ago.

Process of Law Required.
The court asked, first, whether it is required that due process of law, as guaranteed by the constitution, must be pursued in removing an officer. Cases were cited by Mr. Olbrich to show that satisfactory proofs of misconduct must be shown, and that Ekern was entitled to reasonable opportunity to be heard. Basing his case on State ex rel Milwaukee Medical college vs. Chittenden, he concluded that the framers of the constitution "never contemplated its exercise without proper restriction and safeguard."

"The removal proceeding by the governor," added Olbrich, "is a sort of extraordinary power of impeachment vested in him during the recess of the legislature—ad interim—only."

Furthermore, a removal made without according these privileges was called void by Olbrich upon the ground that any failure to observe the officer's constitutional rights would render an order of removal void.

No Evidence of Charges.
The attorney reviewed the testimony at the governor's hearing on Ekern's case, and submitted that there was no evidence to sustain the charges that Ekern was politically active in behalf of L. L. Johnson's speakership campaign.

Describing this hearing, Ekern's attorneys in their brief say: "The governor is an able criminal lawyer; he saw the weakness of the case made while driving at breakneck speed to best the clock; he did not dare rest it as the court now must rest it on the evidence produced at the hearing. The governor felt obliged to call to his aid as the basis for his judgment testimony alleged to be locked up in his own breast, and on this testimony it is evident he based his judgment."

NO CURRENCY LAWS

WASHINGTON, May 14.—No hope for banking and currency legislation in the present session of congress is entertained by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska who with the senate bank and currency committee had today prepared the list of questions to be submitted to over 1,000 financial experts throughout the country in order that the ideas of the bankers may be learned in advance.

SLASHES OWN THROAT WITH RAZOR

Found by Officers Lying Dead Before Mirror
in His Own Home

William Hogue, age 70, a retired farmer who has made his home in Sparta for the last twenty-five years, beat his aged wife Margaret to death with a poker early this morning, shot his daughter, Mrs. Guy Wilson, so that there is a probability that she will die, shot his son-in-law, Guy Wilson, through the leg and then committed suicide by cutting his throat with a razor. Insanity caused by family troubles is believed to have been the cause of the triple tragedy.

Separated Year Ago.
Hogue became estranged from his wife shortly more than a year ago over a disagreement which came up when he wanted to sell a farm. The wife believed that the $15,000 offer which he had received was too small and refused to become party to the deal. The daughter, Alice Wilson, is said to have taken the part of her mother and the quarrel caused the separation of the aged couple.

About a month ago the couple became reunited and for a short time their disagreement was forgotten, but the quarrel broke out afresh. The belief that his family troubles weighed upon his mind until he became insane is substantiated by remarks he is known to have made to neighbors threatening to end it all with death.

The first intimation the neighbors had that he meant what he said came at 7 o'clock this morning, when they heard the sound of shots and screams in the Wilson home. Rushing to the house they found Mrs. Wilson lying on the floor apparently dying. She had been shot through the breast and the head and her arm was broken. Her husband, Guy Wilson, had received a shot through the leg but notwithstanding he had overpowered his aged assailant and taken the revolver away from him. The murderer then left for his own home four blocks away and completed his crime by cutting his throat.

Beat Wife to Death.
That he had killed his wife by beating her to death with the poker before he went to the Wilson home is believed because the woman's body was found lying on the floor near the kitchen range in which she had started a fire in the preparation of breakfast. Her head was lying on a pillow and her face was covered with her apron. The insane husband had evidently dragged her about the floor and placed her in that position before he left the house on his murderous intent to kill his daughter and son-in-law. There was no sign of a struggle in the house showing that the old woman had been struck from behind when she was not expecting an attack.

When Chief of Police Waring arrived at the Hogue house a few moments after the shooting at the Wilson home he found the slayer lying on the floor beside his wife with his throat cut from his ear to his windpipe. He was a large man and the blood covered the floor and furniture. He had stood in front of a mirror when he committed suicide and staggered to the side of the body of his wife, where he fell dead.

No Warning.
According to the incoherent story of Guy Wilson, the son-in-law, he and his wife were getting ready for breakfast when Hogue walked in the house and without a word of warning opened fire with a revolver. Alice Wilson, his daughter, was the first victim, being shot through the breast and head. As she fell Wilson grappled with his father-in-law, receiving a shot through the leg. He managed, however, to cling to his assailant and in the struggle forced the old man to give up his weapon. He then turned to his wife and endeavored to carry her to a bed. While he was doing this Hogue left the house.

Neighbors, attracted by the sound of shots and screams, arrived and helped the wounded. Hogue managed to get to his home unmolested in the confusion and was found a suicide when the police went to arrest him. It was then learned that his wife was the first victim of the tragedy.

A coroner's inquest was called at 10 o'clock and several witnesses were examined by City Attorney Z. S. Rice, who acted in the behalf of the state because of the absence of the district attorney. The coroner's jury returned the verdict that Mrs. Margaret Hogue met her death by

OF THE GOVERNMENTWhile the logic of experimentation with the Friedmann serum thus far is that of negation it should not be accepted as conclusive proof that there is nothing in the treatment. The bad impression created by the conduct of the bacteriologist is apt to prejudice the public. His methods are reprehensible, but it should be remembered that the warning of the government following its observations was merely that experimentation entirely incomplete has not seemed to warrant the hope that the treatment is a cure. We quote from the government report:"We are not as yet in position to express an opinion based on the present conditions under observation. The disease for which the remedy is used is prolonged and is characterized by periods of advancement and retrogression. It is also one in which psychical influences are a powerful factor. Time is therefore necessary to properly evaluate the effect of the therapeutic measures. We must not lose sight of the possible therapeutic value of this preparation and on the other hand it is necessary to guard against too great optimism in respect to its merits. Without presenting in detail the condition of patients under observation, we are in a position to state that the facts thus far observed do not justify that confidence in the remedy which has been inspired by widespread publicity."Plainly the government experts are not prepared to assume the responsibility of branding the treatment a failure. Let us, then, hope for the best; but let us not be misled into optimistic views to relinquish which later might be painful.MORE "LARGEST SHIPS" LAUNCHEDThe rival trans-Atlantic steamship companies have been very busy this spring launching "the largest ship in the world." There have been three or four of them recently and there will be more. The Aquitania of the at Belfast is said to be the last word in shipbuilding and will probably continue to be the last word for a week or two.Every new ship contains the usual number of new fandangies which nothing goes out of style faster than ocean steamships. Most of them are behind the times before they make their first trip, lacking at least twenty-five improvements that have been announced by rival companies.Ships now have theaters, family flats, swimming tanks, gymnasiums and circulating libraries. Soon they will doubtless have automobile driveways, stadiums for Olympian games, league baseball, zoological gardens,

three ring circuses and six day bicycle races. Life aboard ship is gradually getting to be as strenuous as life in a city and the person who goes abroad for a rest does not get it.About the only thing a tired man aboard ship escapes now is getting out in the morning and running a lawn mower, but the time will probably come when there will be a neat lawn in front of every private apartment as well as a place back of the kitchenette where a man may cultivate a vegetable garden on the ocean.Thus a family can take their domestic cares right along, assuring themselves of a pleasant vacation.It would be interesting to know what shipbuilders of the future will find in the way of new features to attract the public. It is possible that some day, after they have exhausted every new idea for luxury and entertainment, they may be able to find time to invent a steamship that will not sink.ANOTHER TEMPEST
IN A TEAPOTTo describe Governor McGovern's political ground and lofty tumbling what is better than Flanagan's laconic message:"Off ag'in, on ag'in, gone ag'in."
"FLANAGAN."Nor is the above less apropos because of the fact that Flanagan's telegram was a railway roadmaster's report of a wreck.However, there need not have been so much excitement about the accident. When the engine jumps the track one expects slugged type and blackface headlines, but when a caboose leaves the rails it is a dull day when the news editor can give it place in the "News in Brief" stick-ful.ENERGY GREAT FACTOR
IN HUMAN AFFAIRSScience has proved to us little microbes who are digging around in an effort to solve the problems of the high cost of living, that not one single molecule of the entire universe is ever in a state of quiescence for the millionth part of a second.Every molecule is ever active, trying to beat some other molecule. Every element of nature acting upon some other element produces energy or power.The brain is a system of elements so constructed that they make thought and reason possible. And thought and reason, if kept polished up, clean and well oiled, produce ideas. An idea is the most powerful form of energy in existence.Energy runs and rules the universe, hence, the more ideas you produce, if they are practical—and an idea isn't an idea unless it is practical—the more you are adding to that wonderful power without which the world would return to chaos as quickly as a flea bats his eye.Every idea your brain conceives, if you get it into circulation, gives progress a shove along toward its ultimate goal.It's a whole lot more satisfactory to be a producer than a mere consumer.The quite general opinion that college students by and large, are an incorrigible, irreligious lot was given a severe jolt when, at a Princeton voting contest, it was found that the favorite book was the Bible.Aspirations to be a great actress are often killed in homely girls by the fact that a real star has to be married and divorced at least three times before the public begins to properly worship her.A night out may produce a palpitation of the heart, as well as a surge of tender emotion. There are still a lot of fellows in the world who can't distinguish between the effects of dissipation and sentiment.The police have discovered a band of crooks in Chicago. The surprise is not that there was a band of crooks, but that it was discovered by the police.Twelve million copies of the federal cook book have been distributed so far. Wonder if the old scrap book craze is coming back.The discoverer of fish glue is dead.
And he stuck it out 40 years after making this horrible discovery.Sure, higher education pays. See the number of college boys in baseball.Quips and Cranks and Wanton WilesThe Smell of Printer's Ink
You may speak of all the spices
From the Islands of the Sea;
Of the fragrance of the lily
Or the sweet magnolia tree;
Of the banks of sweet wild flowers
Growing by the river's brink,
But to me, they're not so pleasing
As the Smell of Printer's Ink.From the printed page before me,
Comes that odor known so well,
Bringing memories of pleasures
And of tales I love to tell;
Of the days of sick and apron,
(Of them still I love to think)
And the friendships then begotten Midst the Smell of Printer's Ink.From the ever-busy "news-room,"
Where the "lino" slugs were cast,
To the hot and noisy press-room,
With its wheels all flying fast,
Through the editorial precincts,
Where the "cub" reporters winked,
To the counting room and office,
Came the Smell of Printer's Ink.Thus, through every nook and cranny
Was it wafted to and fro,
And for years I lived and breathed it
And I learned to love it so,
That with open page before me,
Now, I'm drawn by memory's link
Back to scenes long since deserted,
By the Smell of Printer's Ink.

Left the Ordinary Food
A woman was complaining about the depredations of her dog.
"Only yesterday," she cried, "he broke into the larder.""Dear me," said her interlocutor.
"Did he eat much?""He ate," she replied, "every blessed thing except the dog biscuit."A Napoleon of Commerce
A tall, green looking youth stepped into a village grocery store where they keep something to drink as well as to eat, and after peering about a little spied some ginger cakes. Said he to the grocer:"Them's mighty fine cakes. What's the least you'll take for one of 'em?"

"Ten cents," replied the grocer.

"Well, I believe I'll take one, if you'll wrap it up right good."The grocer wrapped up the cake and handed it to him. He looked thoughtfully at it awhile and said:"I don't believe I want this cake after all. Won't you swap me a drink for it?""Yes," said the grocer, as he took back the cake and handed him a glass of something.The young man swallowed the liquor and started off."Hold on!" cried the grocer. "You haven't paid me for my drink.""I swapped you the cake for the drink.""But you haven't paid me for the cake."

"You've got your cake."

This last retort so nonplussed the grocer that he stood and scratched his puzzled head, while the young man made good his retreat.—Life.Admitted He Had None
A young man entered a meat market and purchased a steak. After the meat had been wrapped up, the young man decided that some calf's brains would be fine as a side dish.

"Have you any brains?" he inquired.

The butcher looked at him a minute and said:"No, I haven't any. If I had some I would not be working here."FAMOUS IN A DAY FOR THE BEAUTY OF HER HANDS AND ARMSA Free Prescription That Does Its Work Over Night—You Can Prepare It at Your Own Home"It's my own discovery and it takes just one night to get such marvelous results," answers Camille de Verlae, when her friends ask her about the marvelous change in the appearance of her hands and arms. "You can do the same thing if you take my advice," she says. "I feel it my duty to tell every woman what this wonderful prescription did for me. Just think of it! It did all this in one night."It affords me a world of pleasure to tell anyone else just how such remarkable results were brought about.
I give you, absolutely free, the identical prescription which has made me so happy by beautifying my hands and arms. You can form no idea of the marvelous change it will make in just one application. The prescription, which can be prepared at your own home, is as follows:Go to any drug store and get an ounce bottle of Kulux Compound.
Pour the entire contents into a two-ounce bottle, add a quarter ounce of witch hazel and fill with water. Mix this at home. Apply night and morning. The first application will delight you. It gives the skin a velvety softness, obliterates all discolorations such as tan, sun spots, freckles and coarse pores, roughness, and, in fact, every blemish the skin is heir to. It also produces a marvelous effect on the face, neck and shoulders. It is deliciously cool and soothing and is not affected by perspiration. It will not rub off.If the neck is discolored from being exposed to the sun or from wearing high collars, this prescription will immediately relieve that condition. No matter how rough and ungainly the hands and arms, or what abuses they have had through hard work; no matter what exposure the skin has had to sun and wind, this prescription will work a wonderful transformation. Thousands of women are using this prescription with just the same results that I have had.Humor From the Judge.

"Dead—Marshall's father dead!"
She looked at him curiously, with a questioning light in her eyes. "You have not told me all, Colonel Har-bison!""Not told you all—" he repeated.
"How did he die?""I think—I fear he shot himself, but of course it may have been the purest accident.""It was not an accident—" she cried with a sob. "Oh, don't mind what I am saying!" she added quickly, seeing the look of astonishment on the colonel's face."Mrs. Langham may come up if she wishes," called Doctor Taylor, speaking from the head of the stairs.Evelyn moved down the hall and paused."Does Marsh know?" she asked of the colonel."Yes, unfortunately we carried him into his father's room," explained Harbison.Evelyn went slowly up the stairs.
The horror of the situation was beyond words. As she entered the room where Marshall lay, Watt Harbison and the doctor silently withdrew into the hall, closing the door after them; but Langham gave no immediate sign that he was aware of his wife's presence.

"Marsh?" she said softly.

His palpable weakness and his cut and bruised face gave her an instinctive feeling of tenderness for him. At the sound of her voice Langham's heavy lids slid back and he gazed up at her."Have they told you?" he asked in an eager whisper."Yes," she said, and there was a little space of time when neither spoke.She drew a chair to his bedside and seated herself. In the next room she could hear Doctor Taylor moving about and now and then an indistinct word when he spoke with Watt Harbison. She imagined the offices they were performing for the dead man. Then a door was softly closed and she heard footsteps as they passed out the hall.Evelyn kept her place at the bedside without even altering the position she had first taken, while her glance never for an instant left the haggard face on the pillow. Beyond the open windows the silver light had faded from the sky. At intervals a chill wind rustled the long curtains. This, and her husband's labored breathing were the only sounds in the leaden silence that followed the departure of the two men from the adjoining room. She was conscious of a dreary sense of detachment from all the world, the little circle of which she had been the center seemed to contract until it held only herself. Suddenly Langham turned uneasily on his pillow and glanced toward the window."What time is it?" he asked abruptly."It must be nearly day," said Evelyn. "How do you feel, Marsh?
Do you suffer?"He shook his head. His eyes were turned toward the window."What day is this?" he asked after a brief silence.

"What day?" repeated Evelyn.

"Yes—the day of the week, I mean?"

"It's Friday."

"They are going to hang John North this morning!" he said, and he regarded her from under his half-closed lids. "I wonder what he is thinking of now?" he added."Would the governor do nothing?" she asked in a whisper.

She was white to the lips.

"And the Herbert girl—I wonder what she is thinking of!""Hush, Marsh—Oh, hush! I—I can not—I must not think of it!"
she cried, and pressed her hands to her eyes convulsively."What does it matter to you?"
he said grimly."Nothing in one way—everything in another!""I wish to God I could believe you!" he muttered."You may—on my soul, Marsh, you may! It was never what you think—never—never!""It doesn't matter now," he said,
and turned his face toward the wall.

"Marsh—" she began.

He moved impatiently, and she realized that it was useless to attempt to alter what he had come to believe in absolutely. Beyond the windows the first pale streaks of a spring dawn were visible, but the earth still clothed itself in silence.
The moments were racing on to the final act of the pitiless tragedy which involved so many lives.

"Marsh—" Evelyn began again.

"I've been a dog to endure your presence in my house!" he said bitterly.Evelyn was about to answer him when Doctor Taylor came into the room.

"Is he awake?" he questioned.

Langham gazed up into the doctor's face.

"Will I get well?" he demanded.

"I hope so, Marshall—I can see no reason why a few days of quiet won't see you up and about quite as if nothing had happened.""Come—I want to know the truth! Do you think I'm hurt internally, is that it?" He sought to raise himself on his elbow but slipped back groaning."You have sustained a very severe shock, still—" began the doctor."Will I recover?" insisted Langham impatiently."Oh, please, Marshall!" cried Evelyn."I want to know the truth! If you don't think you can stand it, go out into the hall while I thrash this matter out with Taylor!" But Evelyn did not leave her place at his bedside."You must not excite yourself!"
said Taylor."Humph—if you won't tell me what I wish to know, I'll tell you my opinion; it is that I am not going to recover. I must see Moxlow.
Who is down-stairs?"Opals.
"Colonel Harbison and his nephew.""Ask Watt to find Moxlow and bring him here. He's probably at his boarding-house."He spoke with painful effort, and the doctor glanced uncertainly at Evelyn, who by a slight inclination of the head indicated that she wished her husband's request complied with. Taylor quitted the room.

THINK HUSS HAS LEFT LA CROSSE

Youth Suspected of Robbing Thorgeson Store Thought on Way to Twin Cities

After making extensive investigations on the north side yesterday to obtain the whereabouts of John Huss, who has been suspected of the robbery of $20 from Mrs. T. Thorgeson, who operates a candy store at 2108 George street, the police have received authentic information which leads them to believe that Huss and two of his companions left the city last night on a north bound freight of the Burlington.

Huss resigned his position with the Montague Candy company some days ago without the knowledge of his parents, telling several friends that he had a desire to see the world.

Threatening statements are alleged to have been made to Mrs. Thorgeson several hours after she missed the money which was taken from the pocket book which was hanging on the knob of the cash drawer, behind the counter.

Police of this city are communicating with the authorities of cities in the direction they think the boy and his companions took. Several members of train crews on the Burlington who were occupied in their work in the yards last night say that they saw three boys of youthful appearance board a train bound for Minneapolis.

The boy's disappearance after the theft and his intentions of leaving the city lead the police to believe that he is the guilty party.

HELD FOR THEFT OF GOLD WATCH

Following several small thefts which have been committed in the Milwaukee round house on the north side in the past few weeks, Mike Williams, an Italian, was arrested this morning, charged with the theft of a gold watch from Fireman Lawrence Larson. Larson had just arrived at the north side from his run on freight train No. 65 of the River division. As usual he hung his watch near his locker in the round house, and proceeded to wash his hands and face in preparation for leaving for his home. When he had finished his preparations and had dressed, he found that his watch was missing. Williams, one of the round house roustabouts, was the only person in the part of the building in which Larson was dressing.

SIX YEAR OLD GIRL IS ACTRESS

Little Mary Coughlin, the star of amateur show "Jane."

Little Mary Coughlin, 6 years old, will be the bright particular star in the musical production "Jane" to be given for the benefit of St. James parish tomorrow and Friday. The first performance of the show will be given tomorrow evening.

Rehearsals are approaching a state of perfection for the big production, according to Producer Ed. Conway. The galaxy of local amateur performers numbers nearly every distinguished singer and comedian from all parts of the city. A dress rehearsal for the big show will be held this evening, with all the performers appearing in their special costumes.

The seat sale has been unusually heavy for an affair of the kind, and Mr. Conway says the production will play to full houses at every performance.

Chief among the attractions to be presented is a beautiful swinging song, which will be materially aided by giant swings passing out over the heads of the audience, with pretty girls in each. The scene of the second act is a cotton field in the south, and southern plantation melodies by a chorus of pickaninies will be featured.

TWO MORE CALLED IN O'HARA PROBE

Liquor Dealer and Alleged Comrade of Official
to Give Their Testimony

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 14.—The senate committee named to investigate charges against Lieutenant Governor O'Hara in the Robinson affidavit today issued subpoenas for Sam Davis, local wholesale liquor dealer, and Thomas Vredenburg, millionaire lumberman, to appear before the committee at the capitol tonight at 8:00 o'clock. No other witnesses will be heard. The hearing will be open to the public.

Davis will be questioned regarding assertions made by Mande Robinson that he persuaded her to make the affidavit against O'Hara and that he had said he intended to use it to prevent the vice commission from calling him as a witness and to "silence O'Hara."

Vredenburg will be asked in regard to O'Hara's alleged presence in the Sherman hotel with Vredenburg and two women in January.

Friends of Vredenburg intimated that his testimony may be sensational. They said he probably would desire to explain what became of the gallons of intoxicants said to have been delivered to his room in the Hotel Sherman.

HANDSOME IRISH SETTER BECOMES PET OF COPS IN THE NORTH SIDE STATION

With his feet badly swollen and his general appearance telling a tale of hardships of the road, a handsome dog of the Irish setter breed wandered into No. 2 police station Monday night along with several nomads that applied to the enforcers of the law at the station for lodging.

They haven't found a name for him, and they haven't found the owner, but as far as humane treatment is concerned "Irish," as he has been temporarily dubbed, won't suffer any while in their hands. Hotel keepers are saving dainty bits of meat for him, which Patrolman Yehle faithfully procures for the No. 2 when each meal time comes around.

The officers at the station are diligently endeavoring to find the dog's owner, as the indications are that he originated in a high class of dog society. In the meantime "Irish" will continue to be taken care of at No. 2.

ERECT MEMORIAL TO BATTLESHIP MAINE

Maine Memorial.

On Decoration Day, May 30, the beautiful memorial being erected at the entrance to Central Park, New York, in honor of the men aboard the battleship Maine when she went down in Havana Bay, fifteen years ago, will be dedicated to the booming salute fired by the Atlantic squadron which will be anchored in the Hudson river.

In the parade which will precede the dedication there will be detachments of marines, blue jackets and soldiers from nearby army posts as well as the local national guard.

NEILL QUILTS TO AID GUGGENHEIMS

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Secretary of Labor Wilson today accepted the resignation of Charles P. Neill, for eight years commissioner of labor, and famous federal mediator under the Erdman act in railroad labor disputes. Neill leaves the government service tomorrow to accept a position at a reported salary of $20,000 a year to supervise labor conditions of the American Smelting and Refining company.

Neill is the second high government official who has left Uncle Sam to enter service of the Guggenheim interests. William Loeb, Jr., former collector of the port of New York, having recently resigned to become a "Smelters' official."

DEMANDS PROBE
OF REFORMATORY

Attorney Complains to the State Board of Control
Regarding Green
Bay

MILWAUKEE, May 14.—Charges that the Green Bay reformatory, instead of being conducted as a reformatory, wrecks the health of its inmates and subjects them to the control of cruel men, were transmitted to the state board of control by Attorney Frank Mackut, Jr., Empire building, Tuesday. He asks an investigation.

Accompanying Mr. Mackut's complaint were affidavits signed by himself, Rudolph Grossman, solicitor for the magazine, Better Farming and Vernon D. Wilson, subscription manager, Farm Press Publishing company.

They tell of a visit they made to reformatory, April 27, to see Herman Gould, a prisoner, 23, for whom Mr. Mackut was attorney and lawyer, probation officer.

The complaint declares that from February 5, the day he entered the institution, to April 27, Gould was in the open air only once, and then only for an hour. He is very sick, Mackut says, and he believes he is afflicted with tuberculosis contracted since his imprisonment. He has besought the reformatory officials to give him work in the open, but he is still in the overall factory which, with broom making, form the only industries at which prisoners can be put.

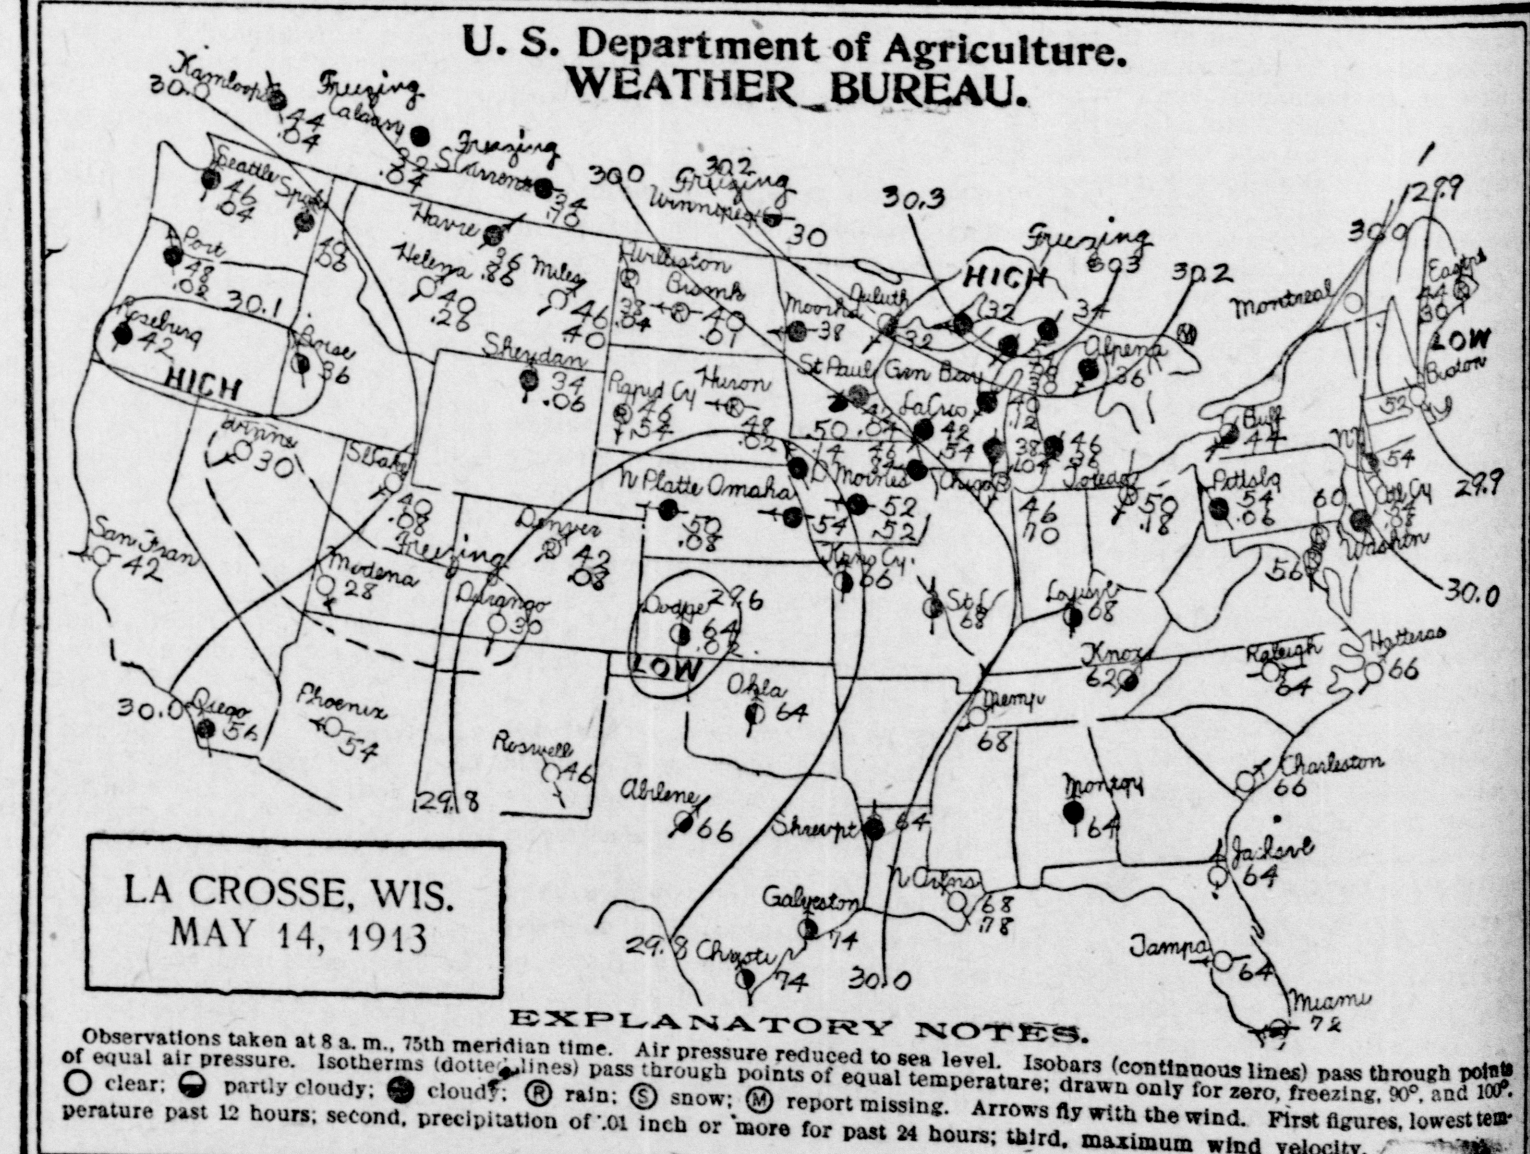

SWITCHMAN HURTS HAND

While switching box cars in the North side yards of the Milwaukee railroad last night, Switchman Frank Smith met with an injury in which the forefinger of his right hand was seriously injured. It was at first thought that possibly the finger would have to be amputated. It will be necessary that Smith be absent from his work for several days while the member is healing.

ROADS TO RAISE RATES

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Informal consideration of the proposed five per cent increase in freight rates by railroads operating in the territory east of the Mississippi and north-east of the Ohio river was begun today by the interstate commerce commission. The carriers, 52 in number, have not yet filed their tariffs, but they have informed the commission, through President Willard of Baltimore and Ohio, they intend to increase present freight rates by at least five per cent.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, falling memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains, and loss of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it. This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and is so convinced it is the surest-acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together. I think I owe it to my fellow man to send him a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop struggling himself upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: "Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this valuable recipe in a plain ordinary sealed envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free."

MARKET BUREAU
BILL IS APPROVED

Committee on State Affairs
Reports Law to the Assembly for Passage

MADISON, Wis., May 14.—(Special.)—Gov. McGovern's market commission bill was reported into the assembly this morning for passage by a vote of six to three. The plan is to make the bill a special order for either next Tuesday or Wednesday. Assemblyman Axel Johnson, chairman of the committee on state affairs that considered the bill, will oppose the passage of the measure on the floor of the house. The bill calls an appropriation of $100,000.

The bill creates a commission of three members of which the state dairy and food commissioner shall be an ex-officio member. Within thirty days after the passage of the act the governor shall make the appointments which shall be confirmed by the senate. Each member shall receive an annual salary of $5,000 and the expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of his duties. The chief purposes of the commission are to prevent monopoly, to promote co-operative enterprises, in behalf of consumer and producer, to develop agricultural, industrial and commercial resources, to improve country life and to perform functions heretofore performed by the dairy and food commissioner, the state board of immigration and the state board of agriculture.

WALL BUT NONE OF ST.
PAUL FAMILY IS INJURED

ST. PAUL, May 14.—Police today are making efforts to run down the bomb thrower who last night endangered the lives of a dozen persons and wrecked the home of E. A. Russell here. The force of the explosion of the dynamite tore down one side of the house, but nobody was injured. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Russell there were several roomers in the house and all were shaken up and bruised.

The bomb thrower planted a stick of dynamite under the dining room window and then threw a bomb into a bedroom where he believed Mr. and Mrs. Russell were sleeping. Russell blames two Italians who have frequently made threats against his life.

Black Pugilist Is Convicted on Charge of White Slavery in Schreiber
Case

CHICAGO, May 14.—Under close surveillance by federal agents, Jack Johnson, black pugilist, found guilty on charges of white slavery, denied himself to all comers today and prepared for a conference with his attorneys in a final battle to save himself from the penitentiary.

Early today, after the jury had reported finding him guilty on all seven counts of the indictment charging him with transporting Belle Schreiber, former burlesque actress, for immoral purposes, the big black entered his automobile, gave a curt order to his chauffeur and was driven to his home. This was after his attorney, Benjamin Bachrach, has successfully battled the plea of Special Assistant District Attorney Parkin that the negro fighter be sent to jail.

Federal Judge Carpenter ruled that Johnson should be permitted his liberty under $30,000 bond, which he gave last fall when the indictments were returned, until after the court hears arguments on the motion for a new trial, to be argued on May 19.

Either the H. J. This is an improvement which, under ordinary circumstances, would be welcomed by the neighbors and citizens in general. But it happens that the field in front of the pickle factory has been the official baseball diamond of the Third ward from time immemorial. Every Sunday afternoon from April to October since 1874, or thereabouts, and that is as far back as Mert Sullivan can remember, there has been a red hot baseball game on this diamond. HUGE PROFITS IN TRUST'S BUSINESS

U. S. Bureau of Corporations Reports Excessive Dividends by Steel Organization

PROFIT $10.78 A TON ON RAILS

Declare that $16.67 per Ton Was Actual Cost of Manufacturing the Product

WASHINGTON, May 14.—A picture of huge and often excessive profits of the United States Steel corporation; its domination of the rails and ore industry; its "inside profits" on transportation and its superior efficiency and co-ordination was presented today in a report of the bureau of corporations. The report was the third installment of the bureau's investigation of the steel industry.

That the trust made a profit of 16 1/2 per cent on steel rails in 1910 and ten and one-half per cent on steel rails in 1911 and ten and one-half per cent on steel plates, according to its investment, was declared in the report.

"The net cost to the steel corporation for Bessemer steel rails was $61.67 per ton, and the average selling price $72.45, giving a profit margin of $10.78," the report declared. That the corporation has $65 of capital invested in making a ton of rails is stated.

The bureau declared that the "book cost" of the steel corporation for making rails was $21.53, but that the actual cost properly chargeable was $16.67. Profits "excessively high," the report asserts, are made by the giant steel company on its iron ore business. The profits are estimated at 22 per cent. Net profits of 23 and 17 1/2 per cent respectively are made by the steel corporation on its Minnesota ore railroads, the report declares.

"These facts," the report concludes, "are obviously of great value with regard to various large questions of public policy and national welfare."

KILLS WIFE AND SHOTS DAUGHTER BEFORE SUICIDE

means of a blunt instrument, presumably a poker, in the hands of her husband, William Hogue, and that William Hogue had died by his own hand, cutting his throat, severing the jugular vein with a razor.

Wife's Neck Broken

Under the questioning of Attorney Rice at the inquest Dr. Williams testified that Mrs. Hogue's neck had been broken by a blow from the poker and that she was bruised about the head and body. He said that it is probable that the first blow killed her. He said that Hogue was lying beside her when he was called and that he had died within a few minutes after he cut his throat.

Chief of Police Waring testified to finding the bodies when he went to make the arrest. He also testified to the jury by testifying that the crime was evidently premeditated and that Hogue had evidently made preparations to leave the city instead of killing himself. As evidence of this fact he said that he had found two trunks already packed and other indications that Hogue expected to go away. The razor with which he committed suicide was taken from one of the trunks which was found open.

Several neighbors and friends of the family testified at the hearing as to the frequent quarrels which disrupted their family peace. Hogue was known as a "hard man to get along with." The hearing was conducted by Attorney Rice before Justice C. E. Lamson and the members of the jury were: Louis Mueller, James Richard, Frank Bacon, William Schaefer, Thomas Jones and William Davis.

Family is Popular

The tragedy has cast a gloom over the entire city of Sparta where both families have lived for years. Although Hogue himself was not popular, his wife, daughter and son-in-law have a host of friends. The Hogue family lived at 105 Chester street, a block off Main street, and the Wilsons live at Chester and Montgomery streets, about four blocks from the Hogue home.

Wilson is a retired farmer and about fifty years of age. His wife, the daughter of the slayer, is about forty-five. Besides the daughter in Sparta who was shot today, Mr. and Mrs. Hogue are survived by a married daughter living in Harvey, S. D., and a son, Rolley Hogue, who is a practicing physician in Dundee, S. D.

Late today it was reported that the physicians in charge of the case have hopes that Mrs. Wilson will recover unless complications arise.

No arrangements have been made for funeral services, word being waited from the son and daughter in South Dakota who have been notified of the tragedy.

RIGHT TO REMOVE CURBED IN SENATE

Bosshard Measure for Review of Ouster Acts by Governor Is Engrossed

MADISON, Wis., May 14.—The senate Tuesday engrossed the Bosshard bill giving the Dane county circuit court, the supreme court and the legislature power to review removals from office by the governor. The vote was 15 to 12.

"It is not proper legislation," Senator Kilean said. "The governor would never remove anyone from office under a statute such as this."

"A public officer is entitled to consideration and if the senate says this bill is introduced to cover a particular case, the case in question goes to show the necessity of such a measure as this," said Senator Bosshard.

"If the executive power had been used with common sense and with fairness, instead of to satisfy personal spite, there would have been no necessity for a bill of this kind. If any public officer is subject to arbitrary and unfair removal without redress, if he is a creature of summary power and the law gives him no right to appeal, it is time that some security were thrown about officials. The right of the possession of office is sacred and the protection of the law should be as strong as it is in shielding personal or real property. This bill is an attempt to protect that policy."

The roll call follows:

NOES—Ackley, Albers, Bichler, Kellogg, Linley, Monk, Randolph, Richards, Scott, Skogmo, Stevens, Teasdale, True, White, Zophy—15.

YES—Rckley, Albers, Bichler, Burke, Culbertson, Cunningham, Glenn, Husting, Kilean, A. E. Martin, Tomkins, Weissleder—12.

MADISON, Wis., May 14.—(Special.)—By its action today in refusing to reconsider the vote by which it occurred in the Linley bill the assembly today took the last legislative step in the movement to permit cities to purchase street railway lines at any time the vote was 46 to 36. The argument against it was that capital would be driven from the state.

KILLED FROM WINDOW

FORMER FRIEND HELD ON THE CHARGE OF POURING BUCKSHOT INTO NEIGHBOR ON STREET

GREENVILLE, Ill., May 14.—J. M. Coling, who was killed by an assassin who fired a double charge of buckshot into his body from the second story window of a hardware store at Mulberry Grove, was expecting an attack, it was learned today and came to town from his farm armed. W. M. Snow, neighbor and former friend of Coling, who is held in the county jail here in connection with the murder was found locked in a small room on the second floor of the hardware store a short time after the shooting. Previously he had been looking over the stock of shotguns in the store. The presence of the two men in Mulberry Grove has been explained by the fact that the Odd Fellows' lodge of that place had called a special meeting to sift the differences between the two men and endeavor to adjust them.

The jury returned the verdict of guilty after having been from the court room half an hour.

The court then took up the case against Anna Meyers accused of stealing $27 from Adolph Bachman while he was at her boarding house on the north side about two months ago.

After being out three-quarters of an hour the jury decided that Mrs. Meyers was not guilty.

Board of Trade Committee to Make Allotments for Windows in Home Made Week

In the hope that none of the 125 manufacturers of La Crosse will fail to take advantage of the advertising opportunity in Home Made Week which will be held here the last week of this month, Secretary John Utermoehl of the board of trade today urged every manufacturer to report the amount of space he needs in the exhibition either to him or to any member of the board committee today or tomorrow.

As soon as the committee is prepared to report on the amounts of display space needed a special committee will be appointed by President William Doerflinger to make the allotments of the windows in the shops and stores of the city.

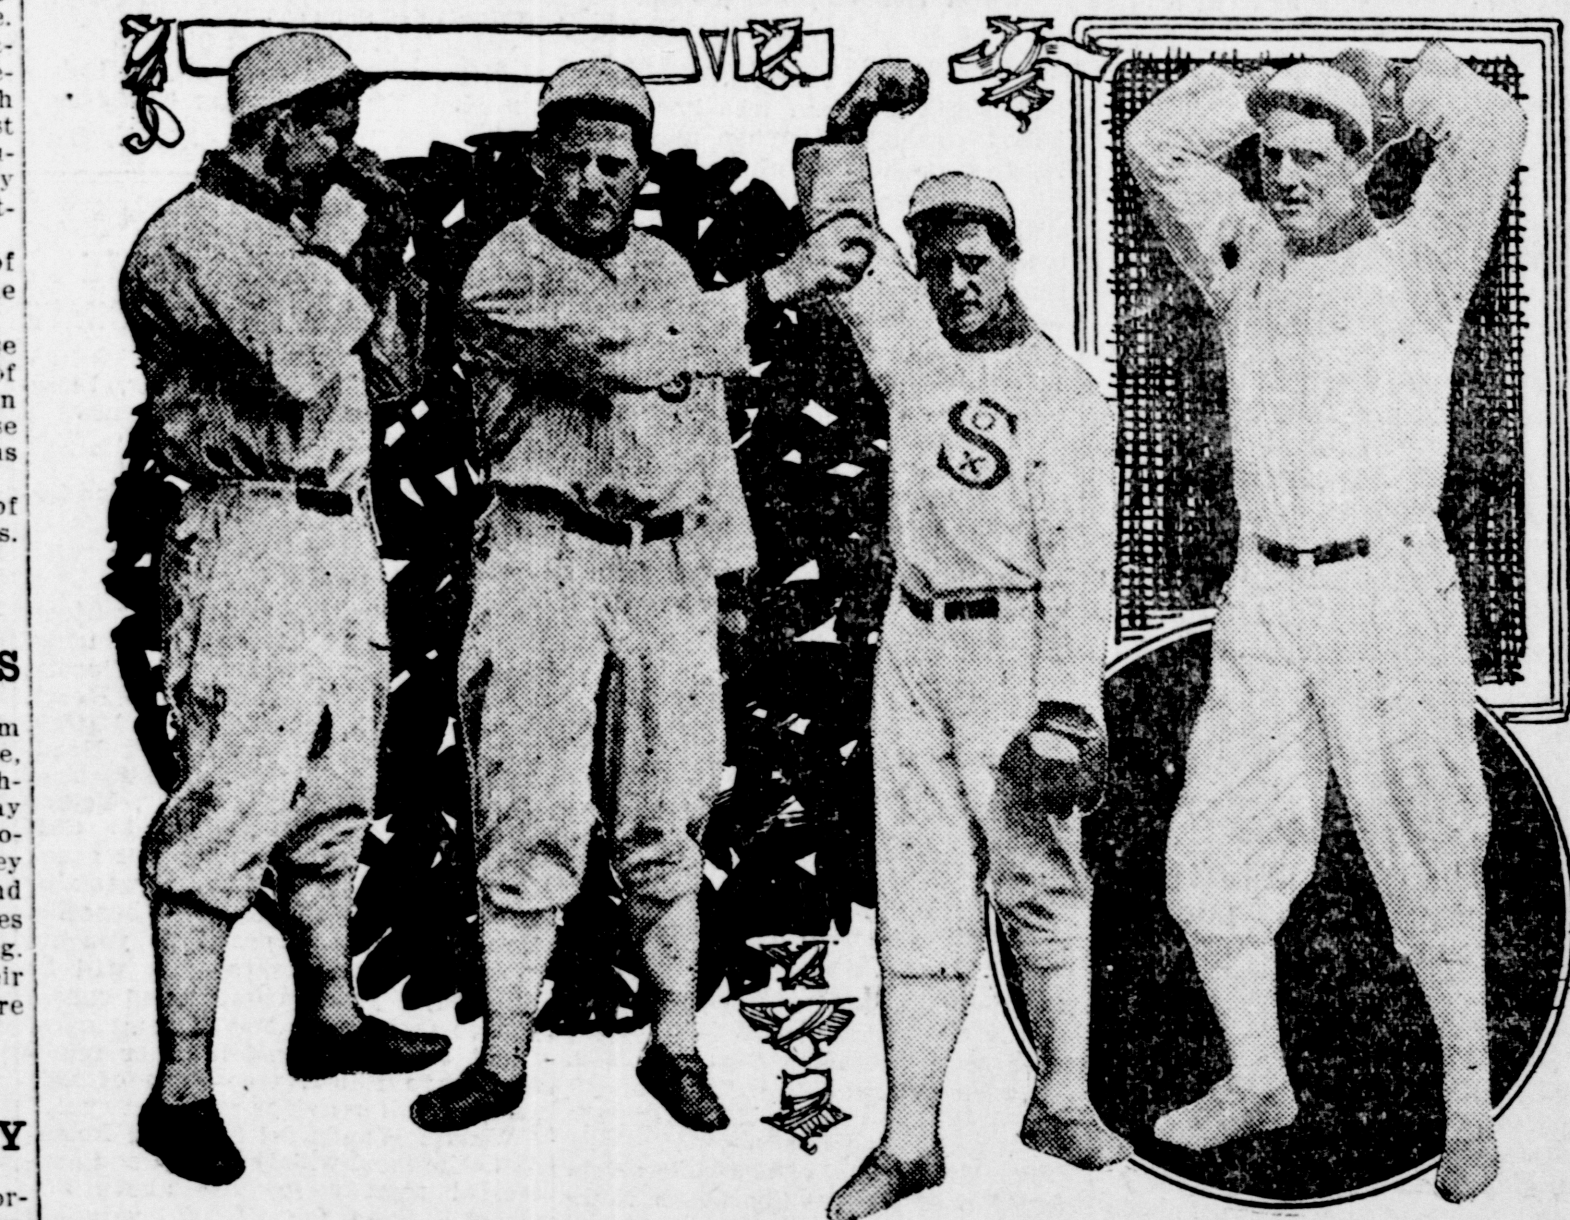

A meeting of the manufacturers will be held probably tomorrow evening to discuss the space allotments and displays.

The La Crosse Gas and Electric company has offered to furnish free of charge all the extra lamps and reflectors needed in the window and street displays of the merchants and manufacturers.

THREE DROWN IN LAKE

WINTON, Minn., May 14.—Fall lake is being dragged by a score of persons today in an effort to recover the bodies of G. P. Tianey, A. P. P. and Victor Puritie, employees of local saw mills, who were drowned last night when their canoe was capsized. At noon none of the bodies had been recovered.

ED WALSH, IRON MAN, KEEPS HIS OLD PACE; WITH FINE PHYSIQUE AND STRONG RIGHT ARM LOOKS GOOD FOR MANY SEASONS TO COME

Four poses of Ed Walsh.

Ed Walsh, famous hurler of the Chicago White Sox and the "iron man" of all modern pitchers, has shown his old form in games played this year. To say that he is showing his old form means that he is feared by every man in the American league who must stand up before his wonderful pitching. Though he has played league ball for eleven years, Walsh today is at the zenith of his power. With his magnificent physique and strong right arm he looks good to last many years.

TEN BOXMAKERS QUIT THEIR JOBS

Employees of La Crosse Box Company Leave Because Pay Is Not Raised

TEN BOXMAKERS MEET A CH After a conference yesterday morning with Manager William L. Joosten of the La Crosse Box company, ten of the seventeen employees occupied in the manufacture of boxes, left their work and quietly walked out.

The men desired a higher wage than Manager Joosten said he could pay them, and as the present wages that they were getting did not suit them, they walked out.

About a month ago Organizer Farley of the International Box Makers' union was in the city endeavoring to unionize all box workers. He made the statement to the box companies of this city that no demand for higher wages, or for a change in conditions would be demanded until the present contracts of employees expired. Farley's aim was to unionize the workers, he said, to not only help the worker, but to make a uniform price for the manufacturer.

Manager William J. McLaughren of the Riverside Box company today denied that any of his men were demanding more wages, as those that cared to join the box workers' union were willing to abide by the plans laid by the organizer in that no changes would be made for nearly a year.

NORWEGIANS PLAN BIG CELEBRATION

Independence Day to Be Observed by Program of Speeches in Germania Hall

"Sittende Mai," the Norwegian Independence day will be celebrated next Saturday evening in Germania hall by all the Norwegians in the city with a program of appropriate speeches and music according to announcement by former District Attorney James Thompson, a member of the committee which has made arrangements for the celebration.

The chief speaker of the evening will be Prof. Gisle Bothne of the University of Minnesota, himself a noted Norwegian, and an authority on Scandinavian history and kindred subjects. Other local Norwegians will also deliver addresses.

A luncheon will be served, and all of the city's Norwegians are invited to attend the session. There will be music by the Norden band, and the Normanna Saengerkor. Arrangements are under way to take care of 1,000 persons at the festivities. The Ibsen club will have charge of the luncheon.

The evening's program is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock and is expected to last until 11.

GET PIKE FRY

The La Crosse County Hunting and Fishing association today received twenty-seven cans of pike fry from the government hatcheries at Homer. The fry will be planted within a few days in the river and sloughs about La Crosse.

No man has such an impediment in his speech that he can't say a good word for himself.

Anyway, a man need not fear competition when he is in love with himself.

No doubt you know quite a lot of men who have outlived their usefulness—if they ever had any.

CARVER WILL HELP MAKE FARMERS GLAD

Marketing social welfare, and other matters connected with the life of farmers are to be looked after especially by a new bureau of the Department of Agriculture in Washington, and Dr. Thomas Nixon Carver of Harvard university is to have charge of it. Dr. Carver is a political economist of note, and has taught that subject in several large universities besides Harvard.

PENROSE ACCEPTS LA FOLLETTE PLAN

Wisconsin Senator's List of Tariff Questions for Hearing to Be Adopted

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Hostilities over the issue of tariff hearings in the senate were resumed soon after that body met at noon today. As on the two previous days of debate, the democrats were confident of the power to prevent delaying the passage of the Wilson-Underwood measure. Senator Penrose's acceptance of Senator La Follette's list of questions to be put to all manufacturers who should appear at the hearings, however, seemed to promise that on final roll-call the minority would be almost a unit.

Progressive republicans who have studied the "La Follette tariff catechism" over night said today that it would produce just the information which President Wilson is directed to seek through the bureau of corporations—the profit and the labor cost in producing and marketing their goods. Democrats answered that the real object of asking these questions in a senate hearing is not to get data but merely to stave off and possibly defeat the enactment of lower tariff duties.

Senator Ransdell, "sugar senator" from Louisiana, began a personally conducted filibuster against the free sugar clause of the tariff bill.

DENTAL ASSOCIATION MEETS

Trout fishing was the main feature of the entertainment of the district meeting of the Wisconsin Dental association held yesterday at Trout Falls, according to Dr. G. P. Houser and Dr. A. T. Rasmussen, who returned from the session today.

MAN FOUND IN CHURCH SENT UP

Robert Effinger Given 30 Days for Vagrancy by County Judge Brindley

Robert Effinger, charged with vagrancy, was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail, by Judge John Brindley in county court this morning.

The police are making investigations into the record of Effinger, who was found drinking wine in an ante-room of the St. John's church Sunday afternoon by a sister. As the rear door of the church had been left open and as nothing in the building was missing, no other charge was placed on the man, who was evidently a tramp. Effinger says that he is a German, having no home in this country.

Had it not been for the action of John Zoeller, who detained the man until the police could arrive, he possibly would have escaped. It was at first thought that Effinger went to the church building to rob it of the gold vessels used in the church services.

According to reports received recently from Minneapolis and St. Paul a person closely answering the description of Effinger has been committing robberies in churches in those cities. Effinger denies any part in these affairs.

ARMLESS EXPERT TO PLAY EXHIBITIONS

George Sutton, armless billiard expert, who has a high run record of 286 despite his handicap, is in La Crosse and will put on exhibition games for three days at the Bodega Annex. Sutton, who is one of the experts of the game and classes with the best of professionals, lost his arms several years ago in a Milwaukee railroad accident. At that time he was in a fair way of becoming a national champion. After he lost his arms it took over a year of constant practice before he developed anything like accuracy. Steady playing ever since has developed his stroke and accuracy to a marvelous degree.

DOUBLE GAME SUNDAY

NELSONS VS. ATHLETES AND SUMMITS VS. CLOTHIERS IS BILL ARRANGED AT LEAGUE PARK

Another bargain ball game will be played at League park Sunday, when all four of the teams in the city league will clash in the second game of the season. The teams will meet in different order Sunday, the Nelsons meeting the Athletes, and the Summits trying conclusions with the Clothiers.

This arrangement was made by the schedule committee of the league at a meeting Monday night. No games have been scheduled after Sunday, as the matter of a north side park is still up in the air.

GIRL GAVE KNIVES TO CONVICTED MEN

CHICAGO, May 14.—Miss Garnette La Fairfield, "spotlight singer" in a moving picture house, was held by the police today on a warrant charging her with accessory in an attempt to commit murder, following an attempt by two convicted robbers to stab their way out of Judge Cooper's court room after sentence had been imposed late yesterday.

The girl, deputy sheriffs charge, slipped two steel knives to the young prisoners, wrapped in a handkerchief, when she stooped over to kiss them goodbye. Harry Evans, 22, one of the youthful robbers, stabbed Detective Boschulte in the neck. Peter Benson, his companion, inflicted a chest wound on Detective Bohaboy.

POLICE PROTECT CARS

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 14.—The crisis in the strike of the two thousand employees of the Cincinnati Traction company was expected today with the first attempt of the company to operate its cars under police protection. The police were instructed by Mayor Hunt to give every assistance to the company to restore traffic which has been suspended since late Saturday.

SEND BOMB TO JUDGE

INFERNAL MACHINE WRAPPED IN MILITANT SUFFRAGETTE LITERATURE SENT TO JUSTICE

LONDON, May 14.—A militant suffragette bomb today was delivered by mail to Police Magistrate Curtis Bennett, who has presided at many of the Bow street police court trials, where members of the Women's Social and Political union have been sent to Holloway street jail. The bomb was labelled "Votes for Women" and wrapped in suffragette literature. Militant suffragettes today burned an unoccupied cottage at Sand Gate, causing $2,500 loss.

A suffragette bomb was found this afternoon in Westminster Abbey. It was a bona fide infernal machine, consisting of a canister of powder with fuse attached, but it was not lighted when found, and the Scotland Yard did not know whether the thing was a hoax or a real attempt to wreck the historic abbey.

"Votes for Women" was on the "bomb" and militant literature wrapped it.

WAR NECESSARY SAYS DR. ABBOTT

Confere of Theo. Roosevelt Says There Are Times When It Is Needed

FOR INTERNATIONAL CONSCIENCE

Says Combativeness Should Be Guided by Reason and Beneficent Hands

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., May 14.—"International conscience," as the cable agency that can bring about world peace, was the keynote of a speech delivered today by Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor in chief of the Outlook, at the opening of the nineteenth annual Lake Mohonk conference on international arbitration.

"There are times when war is necessary," Dr. Abbott said at the outset, and there was a buzz of subdued comment among the 300 delegates who recalled that Colonel Theodore Roosevelt is associated with Dr. Abbott. Dr. Abbott was removed recently as vice president of the American Peace Society at St. Louis and his selection to preside today caused comment. Dr. Abbott continued:

"Combativeness and destructiveness are not vicious elements in human nature. They are not to be destroyed; they are to be guided by reason and directed by beneficent hands."

"There are times when war is necessary. The history of the world would be poorer than it is if there were no record of war on its pages; if there had been no heroes who dared to fight for justice and liberty."

"Christianity does not emasculate men. Christians have not stood and ought not to stand for peace at any price. They have recognized that there are worse things than war, and as war is. There have never been braver soldiers than the Puritan Ironsides, whose heroism gave liberty to England and to America."

Drawing freely from the bible for illustrations of that phase of his argument, Dr. Abbott launched into his main theme—that international peace is secondary to international justice and that international justice depends upon an international conscience. This expression was brand new to the delegates, and it was predicted that it would become a world slogan.

Walking Typhoid May be Your Trouble.

Why Drag Along, Worn to the Bone When You Can be Robust, Happy and Full of Life.

With your blood full of catarrhal infection, nerves all unstrung, blood impoverished, headaches, lassitude, pellagra, hookworm, tape worm, chills and fever or some other debilitating influence, the very foundation of health is being sapped away by spring humors.

S.S.S. is a Wonder. It Makes You Look and Feel the Picture of Real Health.

Half the people you meet complain of weary muscles, stagnant brain, jangled nerves, and a mournful desire to lay down and just quit. Most of these people have been using nervines that spasmodically flame up the nerves only to die down again, as die they must. Avoid nerve stimulants. Bear in mind that this worn out feeling is due to poor blood, to bacteria in the water you drink; to the multiplying of destructive germs in the blood faster than they can be overcome by the white corpuscles; and to what is known as auto-toxemia, that condition where the venous or impure blood accumulates faster than it can be replaced by the red arterial blood.

If you feel played out or experience the peculiar sensations of gas and tenderness in the bowels, go to any drug store and ask for a bottle of S.S.S., Swift's Sure Specific. Here is a remedy that gets at work in a twinkling; it just naturally rushes right into your blood, scatters germs right and left, up and down and sideways.

You feel better at once, not from a stimulant, not from the action of drugs, but from the rational effect of a natural medicine just as active and just as timely as to a man who has been lost in the mountains, is about starved and comes across a settler just cooking a savory meal of good honest beef. Do not neglect to get a bottle of S.S.S. today. It will make you feel better in just a few minutes. It is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. FALL ON STAGE KILLS ACTRESS

NEW RICHMOND, Wis., May 14.—Miss Adelaide Beardsley, 37 years old, a vaudeville actress well known on western circuits, died here of Bright's disease. She came here five weeks ago to fill engagements in a local theater, and falling on the stage, was slightly hurt. Bright's disease from which she had previously been affected, reappeared, causing her death. The body was taken by relatives to her home in Denver, where she was prominently connected.

FREEDOM FATAL TO PARDONED MAN

FOND DU LAC, Wis., May 14.—The shock of being freed proved too much for the weakened constitution of George Wrightman, 82, pardoned Monday by Gov. McGovern after he had served fourteen years for the murder of Clarence Urdike in 1898 and he died of heart disease in his home here yesterday. Wrightman reached Fond du Lac from the penitentiary last Monday. Monday night heart trouble developed and Wrightman died early yesterday.

No Chance for Him.
A certain minister having noticed a new attendant for several consecutive Sundays, engaged her in conversation after service. Cordially shaking the young blond by the hand, the reverend gentleman asked her name, address, etc., and concluded by asking if he might call upon her. In a rather broken English and very Swedish intonation came this response: "No, I tank you, I have a reg-lar fel-ler."

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

WEARY WILLIE DID IT

By JUNE GAHAN

Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

When the bells moved from their country home to the city Miss Laura Bell left behind her protegee. It was old Granny White, whom she had literally taken charge of four years before.

Granny was old, but she was not helpless. She lived alone, but she preferred to. She had a small income and she puttered about with a garden and gathered herbs and berries to sell, and in one way and another she got along fairly well.

At her almost daily visits, Miss Laura was provided with a pie, a custard or something else nice. It wasn't charity, but good will. When a woman gets old and is left alone she would rather have the company of a girl than a woman or her own age. With a girl there is a breeze of optimism. There is a pleasant past and a hopeful future to talk about. Her face reminds the old of happy days, and her laugh is a tonic to old blood.

The young girl and old granny grew to be great chums, and the parting was fairly saturated with tears and punctuated with sobs. They found a few rays of hope, however. The city was only twenty miles away, and Miss Laura could come out and spend the day. Meanwhile the old woman was to be very careful and not get her feet wet nor to forget to lock the doors, and in eating fish to look out for the bones. If she did get a bone in her throat she must run down to the gate at once and borrow a pair of pincers of the first person that passed.

On the other hand, Miss Laura would think of her first thing in the morning and the last thing at night and she would bring lace caps and a kimono for her when she came down. She gave her solemn promise not to engage herself to any young man until she had brought him down and submitted him for inspection. The list of questions that old granny was to ask was made out and carefully laid on the clock shelf, with a potato as a paper weight. When the crucial moment arrived that list would be taken down, and with it in her hand, and her steel bowed spectacles on her nose, old granny would begin:

"Now, young man do you really love Laura?"

"Have you ever loved anyone else?"

"Have any of your relatives ever been in prison?"

"Do you believe every single word of the Bible?"

"If you marry Laura are you going to run out nights?"

"Are you going to jaw around because dinner don't happen to be read on time?"

If the lover answered all these questions satisfactorily he was to be chock marked "O. K." on the back.

Three months had passed before Miss Laura took the train one day to run down to see her protegee. No lover to answer the questions on that list was with her. When she got off at the station she found some changes. The old station agent had been replaced by a new man. The boy that used to drive passengers to their destination in the country had sought another job. She also became aware that a very nice young man had traveled down from the city by the same train, and was evidently bound for the same farmhouse.

When she inquired of the agent as to the conveyance she was told that a new boy was on the job.

When the young man inquired he was told the same thing.

The agent was a conservative, middle-aged man, who had no fund of humor in his makeup.

The fifteen year old boy who drove the old span of has-beens before a two seated what-not, had no seriousness about him. He talked too much. He whistled too much. He boasted too much. He felt that he knew it all. Hence, the agent was down on him. Hence, the agent was looking to humiliate him in the dust. When the boy came dashing up with his old rattletrap of a rig the agent handed him two quarters and said:

"The girl is to stop at Old Granny's and the young man is going on to Jim Fox's. Both are deaf and dumb, and there'll be no chance for you to show off your smartness."

"Deaf and dumb—whew!" replied the boy.

"That's what I said."

"I'm sorry for them. They can't hear me whistle that new opera I picked up the other day."

There was no need for Miss Laura Bell to say anything as she climbed into the back seat of the trap. There was no need for Brice Ashton to say anything as he climbed upon the front seat with the boy. The two passengers were quietly wondering about each other as was natural. Mr. Ashton wondered if it would be his luck to be introduced to such a girl, and Miss Laura wondered (perhaps) how many questions on that list the young man could answer satisfactorily.

There was silence for half a mile, and then the fresh young boy could stand it no longer.

"Say," he said to the nigh horse, "ain't this a situation?"

And to the off horse he said:

"Two gummies at one trip. Gal can't talk or hear—young feller in the same fix. She's going to old Granny's, but how is she going to make the old woman understand? He's going to Jim Fox's, but how's he going to make Jim understand?"

Owes Her Life To Eckman's Alternative

Eckman's Alternative is being used with success in the treatment of Tuberculosis in all parts of the country. Persons who have taken it, improved, gained weight, exhausted night sweats stopped, fever diminished, and many recovered. If you are interested to know more about it, we will put you in touch with some who are now well. You can investigate and judge for yourself. Read of Mrs. Govett's recovery:

Griffith, Ind.
"Gentlemen: About September 10, 1908, my mother-in-law was taken sick with Catarrhal Pneumonia, which developed into Lung Trouble. In January, when Rev. Wm. Berg, of St. Michael's church, at Schererville, Ind., prepared for her death, he recommended that I get Eckman's Alternative, and see if it would not give her some relief. The attending physician declared she had Consumption and was beyond all medical aid. So I immediately had Rev. Wm. Berg to send for a bottle. Practically without hope for recovery, I insisted that she try the Alternative, which she did. I am glad to say that she soon began to improve. Now she works as hard as ever, weighs twenty pounds heavier than she ever did before she took sick, and is in good health."

Affidavit J. OS. GRIMMER.

Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in rebuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit forming drugs. For sale by G. E. Mariner, Chas. Bayschlag, and other leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.

Miss Laura caught on, and Mr. Ashton caught on, but what were they to do but maintain silence and let the boy go on with:

"Girl is a mighty good looking, and there are no flies on the young feller. Both from the city. It would be mighty funny if they fell in love with each other."

Mr. Ashton raised his hand to give the boy a box on the ear, and he opened his mouth to tell him to shut up, but a still, small voice bade him not to interfere. Of course, no still, small voice did anything of the sort, but he desisted.

"The agent said they couldn't hear, but I can sing for my own pleasure," said the boy, as he licked at the bushes with his whip. "I guess I'll sing them 'The Orphan's Lament.' They can't hear the words, but they'll know it's an affecting song when the tears begin to roll down my cheeks."

There were seventeen verses besides the chorus in that song.

"Glad I'm not an orphan gal," mused the boy as he finished and wiped the tears away with the heel of his hand. "If I was I'd get to be a waitress at the Waldorf-Astoria and marry a Wall street broker. I ain't making 50 cents a day, but s'posen I was a dummy like these folks? Well, there's Old Granny's, and she's out in the back garden. I wonder how they are going to say bowdy to each other? Whoa, you wild steeds of the prairie!"

Miss Laura didn't wait for any help to descend, and she had no word for anybody as she hustled for the cottage and Granny.

"Only one dummy left," said the boy as he gave his horses a cut, and the next moment he got the surprise of the season.

He was taken by the shoulders and shaken till his teeth rattled, and the man beside him exclaimed:

"You fool of a boy, you ought to be in an idiot asylum!"

"Great snakes, then you can talk and hear, can you?"

"I should say I could!"

"And the gal?"

"I can't say, but I'll bet she wished you had that whip laid over your back good and plenty. You'll have something coming to you if you keep on trying to be smart."

It was half a mile from Old Granny's to Farmer Fox's. The farmer's wife was Mr. Ashton's sister, and he had been invited down for a visit. He told about the girl that rode with him, but they didn't know her. Next day after her arrival he went wondering over the fields. Next day after her arrival Miss Laura went wandering over the fields. The magnet of Fate brought them almost together when a tramp who was sleeping under a tree awoke with a grunt and sat up.

The girl was almost upon him and she started back with a scream. At her scream Mr. Ashton gave a shout and hastened up.

"I—I was so startled," she said.

"Then—then you can talk?" he asked.

"Yes, and you?"

"Of course I can. It was the fool boy. We thought each other deaf and dumb. Has this tramp—"

"This tramp hasn't done anything but wake up like a lunatic when he was dreaming of a banquet," replied Weary Willie. "And now, lady and gent, bein' there's goin' to be what they calls a 'sitavashun' here, and bein' it can be managed without my help, I will bid you a fond adieu and hope the wedded bliss will be all you can desire!"

Success not only depends upon making the best of ourselves, but upon getting the better of others.

A La Crosse man is so much in earnest that it amounts to a grouch.

KILLS FORMER WIFE

SEATTLE, Wash., May 14.—Desperate over the loss of the love of his wife, who had divorced him and married Isaac L. Osgood, a Nome miner, Bert Ingals, a rancher, walked into the Seattle home of the Osgoods, shot to death Osgood, fatally wounded Mrs. Osgood and then took his own life.

GIRL SHOT AT PICNIC

GLADSTONE, Mich., May 14.—While at a picnic Ruth Anderson, 14 years old, was accidentally shot and badly wounded by a 32 caliber rifle in the hands of Romeo Tessier. It is claimed the youth was wrestling the gun from the hands of a companion when the shot was fired. The bullet tore through the girl's right shoulder and the arm is partly paralyzed.

BISHOP QUAYLE TO GIVE A LECTURE

To Talk on "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" at Normal
Tomorrow Evening

There was a story written some years ago which attracted wide attention from the pen of Robert Louis Stevenson the novelist, illustrating the duality of our natures, that when we would do good evil is ever present with us. The title of this story was "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

In its details the story draws to an amazing extent upon the liveliest imagination and yet the plot of the story suggests a great truth of which this story is an illustration rather than a revelation. A singular intimacy is betrayed between two men of entirely opposite characters. The one is a villain, a cruel monster and a murderer, Mr. Hyde. The other is a kind benevolent citizen, a good man and a gentleman. And still with characters diametrically opposed, with tastes, accomplishments and habits the antipodes of each other, the relation of such intimate character that the one cannot be ignorant of the real nature of the other, the villainy of the one nor the uprightness of the other avails to separate them. So the interest of the story increases until the reader loses his breath in the startling climax, that the wise, benevolent and righteous Dr. Jekyll is one and the same with the hunted and shadowed villain—Mr. Hyde.

Bishop Quayle, one of the greatest interpreters of literature, and speakers on the American platform, author, impersonator and former college president, will lecture on this great theme at the Normal school auditorium on Thursday evening at eight o'clock.

Jackdaw Refused to Go.

A jackdaw followed some children to a school at Wargrave-on-Thames, the other day, and when lessons began tried to go inside. When a teacher attempted to catch it the jackdaw defiantly exclaimed: "Get out! Get out!" It remained in the playground until the children were let out.

THOUSANDS KEEP POSLAM HANDY ALL THE TIME

A jar of Poslam ready at hand is certain insurance against skin affections, serious or slight, which may annoy any member of the family at any time.

In quickly disposing of pimples and rashes, taking soreness out of burns, scalds, stings, etc., curing itching feet, scaly scalp, etc., Poslam—noted for its remarkable work in the cure of eczema, acne, and like serious skin diseases—has become a veritable household remedy. It is an active antiseptic, soothes, cools and subdues inflammation.

POSAM SOAP, used daily for toilet and bath, will keep the skin in healthy condition, and improve its color and texture. It offers the healing medication of Poslam in a form particularly beneficial for tender skin.

All druggists sell Poslam (price, 50 cents) and Poslam Soap (price, 25 cents). For free samples, write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West 25th Street, New York City.

BADGERS TO PLAY THREE BIG GAMES

MADISON, Wis., May 14.—The Badgers will play three conference games this week playing Purdue here on Thursday, and taking a trip south to meet Illinois on Friday and Northwestern on Saturday.

Wisconsin's defeat of Illinois bumped the Suckers out of first place last Saturday, and a hot return game is expected.

Lack of hitting power seems to be the chief trouble with the Badgers this spring, as they average but .239 for the five games played so far. Hoppert leads with an average of .500, while Mereness is the only other batter in the .300 circle.

I. AND R. LOSES ILLINOIS HOUSE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 14.—Friends of the initiative and referendum today were trying to bolster themselves up with the hope that the resolution, defeated by one vote when placed on its final passage in the house this morning at 1:05, still has a chance. They admitted, however, that the chance was very slim.

To pass the resolution, 102 votes were needed. On the final roll call 101 voted for it. Shephard of Jesseville, democrat, changed his vote to "Aye" but before the democrats had time to rejoice, Hubert Kilens, Chicago, also a democrat, changed from "Aye" to "No."

The measure was, therefore, lost. In order to get on more chance at it, Karch moved, before the vote was announced, to postpone further consideration.

SCIENCE CLUB TO DISCUSS GEOLOGY

Advanced Students to Read Papers on Formations of Vicinity of La Crosse

The La Crosse Science club will hold its monthly meeting Friday evening in the geology laboratory of the normal school. The program which will be in charge of Prof. L. P. Denoyer will be centered around the different phases of geology and several advanced students will give papers on the geological formations of the vicinity of La Crosse. Prof. Denoyer will address the society on "The Spirit of Investigation" and a treat is assured all who are present at the meeting. Mr. Arthur Hitt and Miss Mabel Wheaton will speak on the rock and sand formations around this city.

Bishop A. W. Quayle will speak tomorrow night at the normal school under the auspices of the First Methodist church. Coming with a national reputation as an orator Bishop Quayle will doubtless attract a large gathering and his subject, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" is one of his best lectures.

The Buskin Dramatic club of the normal netted over forty dollars from their presentation of Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer" last week.

Simply Couldn't Come.

The Judge—"Unless you have a most satisfying excuse I shall have to fine you for contempt of court for failing to respond to the jury summons." The Taleswoman—"I meant no disrespect, judge, but I hadn't a thing suitable to wear, and I couldn't find a ready-made jury costume any place."

—Woman's Cause.

Had to Have Round Figures.

Where Catherine, age five, buys her candy, they will not sell less than a nickel's worth. Catherine asked for money to buy some, but her papa said: "You have pennies of your own." She answered: "Oh, but pennies ain't any kin to one another unless you've got five."

Happiness.

Happiness is peace after strife, the overcoming of difficulties, the feeling of security and well-being. The only really happy folk are married women and single men.—Smart Set.

IN ANOTHER MOMENT

A New Novel by Charles Belmont Davis

Author of The Stage Door,
The Lodger Overhead, Etc.

Pictures by Wallace Morgan

IN ANOTHER MOMENT is a striking novel of New York as a touchstone of character. With fidelity lightened by humor, and realism brightened by romance, Mr. Davis paints the Gotham of the Great White Way. Deftly he holds the interest in suspense, the reader breathless for what may happen—IN ANOTHER MOMENT.

Design for Embroidering a One Piece Infant's Cap

BY MAY MANTON.

This Design is the exact size for Embroidering and can be transferred from this page by various methods suggested below.

No. 521. A design for embroidering a one-piece infant's cap which is made in one piece. The crown and fronts are laced together through the eyelets and thus form the cap.

The scalloped edges are to be padded and buttonholed. The design may all be worked in solid embroidery with the stems outlined; or it may be made of a combination of solid work with eyelets. In the latter case make the leaves solid also the leaves surrounding the large circle in the center, the flower petals and all the dots as eyelets and outline the stems.

SUGGESTIONS FOR TRANSFERRING THESE PATTERNS.

THE window pane method is perhaps the simplest and is particularly successful when the material is thin such as batiste, lawn, or handkerchief linen, the best plan is to pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the window pane and with a sharp pencil trace the design on the fabric or else lay the material on the pattern on top of a table or other hard surface, and carefully trace the design with a well pointed pencil, the design may also be transferred to heavy material by using a piece of transfer or carbon paper, to be placed between the pattern and cloth, using a sharp pointed pencil to secure a clean line.

TRANSFER PATTERNS SUPPLIED BY M/IL FOR TEN CENTS EACH;

FOR the benefit of our readers who prefer patterns to work by instead of tracing the design on this page by any of the methods which we have suggested, we have arranged to supply patterns of any of the embroidery designs which are featured, for 10 cents each.

These patterns are transferred by the hot iron process, which is the simplest method that has yet been devised for effecting a perfect transfer. All that is necessary is to lay the pattern on the material and press over the entire surface with a hot iron when a perfect transfer will result.

The patterns are supplied either blue or yellow so that they can be used light or dark colored material. In ordering state what color is desired.

The patterns will be sent to any address for 10 cents each, postage paid, enclosed in an envelope on which is printed directions for using, and instructions embroidering the design. Always mention number of design wanted, and add orders to Embroidery Department of paper.

EMBROIDERY PATTERN COUPON.

Cut this out and fill in with name, address and number of pattern desired. Enclose 10 cents and mail to Embroidery Department of this paper.

FOREIGN MARKETS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, May 14.—The stock market opened moderately active and lower.

11 a. m.—The market was dull and uninteresting during the first hour. Traders who expected moderate activity after the promising rise of yesterday were disappointed at the listless movement of large issues, and outside of a few professional dealings the general list was at a standstill.

Chesapeake & Ohio was strong on the report that the directors at the forthcoming meeting would declare a regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent.

Noon—The market remained dull during the second hour.

2 p. m.—There was no change in the market during the afternoon. The stock market closed active and stronger.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, May 14.—Wheat broke at the opening today on depressing news from abroad, but resting orders took the offerings on the ¼c and ½c dip and there was quick recovery to the prices at yesterday's close.

Corn was a fraction easier at the start, but offerings continued light and the market rallied. At the close of the morning session May was ¼c above and July at a level with the closing prices last night.

Reports of generous rains in the oats belt caused an easier feeling at the outset today, but there was a rush to buy when the market dipped and a recovery was the consequence. Provisions had a firm undertone.

MEDIUM'S VISION CAUSES SEARCH

FLINT, Mich., May 14.—The vision of a medium here has started an extensive search in the upper peninsula for Ray Naugle, a clerk of Ithaca, Mich., who disappeared while hunting deer last fall near Neberry, Mich.

Mrs. Naugle was attending a social affair at Flint when a medium present spoke of her trouble. The medium told her all about the known circumstances, and then added more. He said Naugle had been shot in the neck and dangerously wounded, but had been bound by two men and nursed back to health.

He said Naugle, however, had lost his memory of past events, and was unable to tell who he was or where he was from.

Quite a Similarity.

"Young man, you must learn that time is money," counseled the father.

"Well, dad, at least I have noted points of similarity between them."

"In what way?" asked the encouraged parent.

"You know the expression 'time flies,'" replied the young hopeful.—Buffalo Express.

Watching The Scoreboard

The Phillies or Brooklyn will certainly have to lose some day soon, and that suspense as to whether the Dodgers are going to break into first place will be broken.

It might have ended yesterday, but Magee cracked out a home run in the eighth against the Pirates. It proved to be the winning run. J. Miller and Cravath also hit for four bases during the game.

The Dodgers ran Fromme to cover and took their third game from the Reds.

Space is always open for Mr. Murphy in Chicago to amend his statement to the Cubs winning out by an eighteen game margin. With Tesreau going right they were easy for the Giants.

The Cardinals broke Boston's winning streak and are now in third place.

Shades of Methuselah, Nick Altrock was sent in the box against the Browns by Griffith in the eighth inning.

Cobb's batting eye returned for three hits in four times up, but Detroit lost.

The Yanks won their seventh game at the expense of crippled Cleveland.

For Burnt Matches.

Burnt matches are dirty and dangerous to throw about, the charred wood leaving dirt and the glowing end sometimes burning a fine bureau scarf or polished wood. Have a little glass of sand and thrust the burnt end of the matches in this, thus preventing dirt and danger.

MORAL EXCELLENCE.

Moral excellence is man's highest glory. Men everywhere and in all ages have rendered it their homage, but never more so than in the present time. Nothing in this age can take the place of it or atone for the want of it.—Rev. Dr. A. A. Willis.

GIANTS ADMINISTER BEATING TO TONEY

Cub Pitcher Pounded All Over Lot by New York Sluggers in 8 to 2 Game

PHILADELPHIA GETS 3 STRAIGHT

5 to 4 Is Score of the Third Game Between the Pirates and Phillies Yesterday

NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York 8; Chicago 2

NEW YORK, May 14.—Suddenly recovering from a batting slump of several weeks' duration, the Giants pounded Toney's offerings to all corners of the lot yesterday and won from Chicago, 8 to 2. The locals also displayed unusual activity on the bases, stealing a total of seven from the alert Archer. Score: R H E Chicago . . . 000100001—2 6 3 New York . . . 00112031x—8 12 1 Batteries: Toney, Reulbach and Archer, Bresnahan; Tesreau, Myers and Wilson.

Philadelphia 5; Pittsburgh 4
 PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—Philadelphia made it three straight yesterday from Pittsburgh, winning by the score of 5 to 4. Score: R H E Pittsburgh . . . 020010010—4 8 0 Philadelphia . . . 00200201x—5 10 0 Batteries: Camnitz and Simon; Seaton, Doolin and Alexander.

St. Louis 4; Boston 3

BOSTON, May 14.—The Cardinals turned the tables on the Braves yesterday, winning a rather tame game 4 to 3. Both Griner and Perdue were hit hard but the stick work of Magee and Huggins gave the former the edge. Score: R H E St. Louis . . . 000130000—4 10 2 Boston . . . 000200000—3 9 1 Batteries: Griner and Wingo; Perdue, Whaling and Rariden.

Brooklyn 9; Cincinnati 3

BROOKLYN, May 14.—After having a three run lead posted against them in the first two innings of yesterday's game, the Dodgers came to life and in the third landed on Fromme for eight hits, which, aided by two passes and a wild throw, scored six runs. Score: R H E Cincinnati . . . 210000000—3 9 1 Brooklyn . . . 06002001x—9 11 0 Batteries: Fromme, Kling and Betts; Allen, Miller and Curtis.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

St. Louis 7; Washington 6

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—Ragged fielding on both sides characterized yesterday afternoon's game between Washington and St. Louis which the latter won, 7 to 6. Score: R H E Washington . . . 000501000—6 5 2 St. Louis . . . 04101010x—7 8 2 Batteries: Altrock, Gallia, Angle, Cashion, Williams and Ainsmith; Hamilton and Agnew.

Boston 6; Detroit 1

DETROIT, May 14.—George Mullin blew yesterday's game for Manager Jennings in the first three innings, then was sent to the garage. Boston winning, 6 to 1. Score: R H E Boston . . . 202100100—6 9 1 Detroit . . . 000010000—1 9 1 Batteries: O'Brien and Carrigan; Zernlock, Lake, Mullin, Rondeau and Stanage.

New York 8; Cleveland 5

CLEVELAND, May 14.—Although the Naps appeared to have a commanding lead on New York at the end of the third inning yesterday the Highlanders got real busy and beat them out, 8 to 5. Score: R H E New York . . . 0000120410—8 11 1 Cleveland . . . 202010000—5 12 2 Batteries: Ford and Sweeney; Mitchell, Blanding and Carisch.

The Servian Wall.

The Servian wall was the first inclosing wall of ancient Rome and named for Servius Tullius, who is supposed to have built it. It was built against the cliffs of five of the famous hills of Rome, crossing the valleys between them at the narrowest part and reinforced at its weakest points by embankments and ditches.

Sam Agnew.

Catchers Fred Carish of Cleveland and Roy Schalk of the White Sox are not the only promising young backstops who entered the American league this season. St. Louis has a little dandy in Sam Agnew, whom the Browns secured by draft from the Vernon Pacific Coast league club. Agnew is an exceptional thrower and is bagging base runners off the sacks every day.
